New Years Day provided the group with an opportunity to present their third walk of the Festival of Winter Walks

30 members and guests congregated at Llanvihangel Crucorney. Starting from the church, the leader Ron Gladwin took us down an old road, crossing the new main road and up a no through road opposite, past Llanvihangel Court.

Taking footpaths to pass Pen-y-Parc, stopping for coffee just under Ysgryd Fawr (The Skirrid), then onwards and upwards via a winding path, past the remains of an old chapel onto the top. At the trig point there was a clear 360 deg. View with the Sugar Loaf and its sister high ranges of mountains and hills to the south, whilst to the north May Hill and the Malvern Hills presented all present with wonderful views and another photo opportunity

The return was via the winding path taken on the upwards journey before joining the Marches Way taking the group back to Llanvihangel Crucorney, again passing Llanvihangel Court.

At the walks conclusion many joined the leader Ron Gladwin and Chairman Dawn Davies for a most pleasant lunch (good food and beverages) at the Skirrid Inn.

Heading for Ysgyryd Fawr (The Skirrid)
