

Sunday 11 December 2016: Woods, Walls and Water

Twenty-one walkers set off in wonderful sunshine for a walk of just over 7 miles above the Wye Valley at Llandogo. Initially, the valley was filled with mist, but this cleared as the group climbed, dropped down, and climbed again. Crossing Cleddon Brook, the group spotted the mill stone embedded in the river bed, evidence of just one of the industries that made this a busy and productive area. The walk went through Pen y Fan, along farm tracks and through the grounds of Cleddon Hall, with a detour to see the lovely Cleddon Falls. Like all Ramblers walks, there was time to relax, with a short coffee stop overlooking Llandogo and a lunch stop in Manor Wood.
